This is a general guide to inform parents and students of the approximated tutoring hours needed to increase an SAT score. However, due to circumstances that Your Education Solution, LLC cannot control such as test day environment, student illness, and other factors outside the tutor's control, Your Education Solution does not guarantee any particular score. Some of our students have seen a significant increase without completing the maximum number of recommended hours. The more students study on their own in addition to tutoring hours, the more likely their score will increase as much or more than expected. YES! Tutoring is committed to helping students accomplish their goals, and we take pride in providing our students with high quality tutoring tailored to each of their specific strengths and weaknesses.
